DNA Testing: Sire Identification is compulsory. Myostatin & Homozygous Poll Status is recommended. Lots which have been blooded for tick fever and where semen or embryos are retained have been identified in the respective Lots.

Myostatin: Due to the technical difficulties experienced with genomic testing coinciding with closing of entries and the preparation of the catalogue, this genetic trait has not been reported. Individual results can be found online in the animal database.

Bulls: Semen tested, PI Negative, Zoetis UltraVac 7:1, Vibrovax & Pestiguard.

Females: Are PI Negative & Zoetis Ultra Vac 7:1.

All animals are vet inspected.

UNDERSTANDING EPDS

MATERNAL EPDS

CALVING EASE MATERNAL - CE

Reported as the percentage of extra unassisted births in first calving heifers, relative to the average. CE-M is relative to the Calving Ease of the daughters of the animal. Higher values are more favourable.

MILK

Reported as pounds of weaning weight of progeny from the animals daughters, relative to the average. Predicts the difference in maternal production of daughters relative to milk production and mothering. Values are relative to the environment of the production system. Low input environments should be very conscious of introducing too much milk due to the increased nutrient requirements that it can place on cows.

MATERNAL WEANING WEIGHT - MWWT

Reported as pounds of weaning weight of progeny from the animals daughters, relative to the average. This is a measure of weaning weight differences relative to the combined effects of growth and milk. Breeders who are not looking to change milk production should consider Total Maternal as the most relevant EPD for maternal weaning weights. Higher values are more favourable.

STAYABILITY - STAY

Reported as the differences in percentage of a sire's offspring that are predicted to still be in the herd at 6 years of age given that they calved at 2, relative to the average. Stayability is a measure of reproductive longevity. Higher values are more favourable.

DOCILITY - DOC

Reported as the percentage of progeny, relative to the average, that will record a score of docile. Higher values are more favourable.

GROWTH EPDS

BIRTH WEIGHT - BW

Reported in pounds of birth weight relative to the average. When selecting bulls to use on heifers, breeders should also focus on the Calving Ease EPD as Birthweight is already used in the Calving Ease EPD calculation.

WEANING WEIGHT - WW

Adjusted to 205 Days

Reported in pounds of weaning weight of direct progeny, relative to the average. Higher values are usually more favourable dependant on its relationship with birthweight.

YEARLING WEIGHT - WW

Adjusted to 365 Days

Reported in pounds of yearling weight of direct progeny, relative to the average. Higher values are usually more favourable dependant on its relationship with birthweight.

CARCASE EPD'S - Adjusted to 475 Days

CARCASE WEIGHT - CW

Reported as pounds of Carcase Weight relative to the average. Higher values are usually more favourable, however this is relevant to each producers target market.

RIB EYE AREA - REA

Reported as square inches relative to the average. Higher values are usually more favourable.

FAT

Reported as inches of back fat relative to the average. Higher values are usually more favourable, however this requires a balance between adequate doing ability in daughters and carcase fat thresholds for target markets.

YIELD GRADE - YG

Reported as expected differences in progeny average USDA Yield Grade scores.

Yield Grade is used to improve the yield potential of progeny and may seem a strange value for Australian animals. Whilst Australian animals will never receive a USDA graded Yield Grade score, they will also never receive an actual Retail Beef Yield % value either. However, US Shorthorns (including progeny of Australian sires used in the US) are USDA graded each year and so the pedigree linkages provide linkage to actual USDA Yield Grade values.

Lower values are usually more favourable, however because of the negative correlations between fat and yield it is important to maintain some balance in the selection.

MARBLE SCORE - MARB

Reported as the differences in actual carcase marble scores relative to the average. This is different to IMF% which is used as an indicator trait in Marble Score. Higher values are more favourable.

ALL PURPOSE $INDEX - API

Though EPDs allow for the comparison of genetic levels for many economically important traits, they only provide a piece of the economic puzzle. That's where $ Indexes come in. Through well conceived, rigorous mathematical computation, $ Indexes blend EPD's and economics to estimate an animal's overall impact on your bottom line.

The All Purpose $Index (API) evaluates sires for use on the entire cow herd, bred to both first-calf heifers and mature cows, with the portion of their daughters required to maintain herd size retained and the remaining heifers and steers put onto feed and marketed for both quality grade and yield.

UNDERSTANDING ACCURACIES

BOLT EPD accuracies have experienced the most change, usually lowering numerically and especially for non-parent animals, however the reported accuracy will be more accurate.

Accuracy refers to the amount a reported EPD can possibly change as more data is added. EPD values with higher accuracy result in less possible change for the value over time. More accurate accuracies better represent the amount of possible change for each EPD.

Tibial Hemimelia - TH

EPD's are updated monthly.

INTRAMUSCULAR FAT % - RAW DATA

By Roger Evans, Bovine Scanning Services

In 2023 after extensive discussion with vendors, purchasers and industry representatives, the 2023 Dubbo National Shorthorn Show and Sale committee has voted to include raw scan data for Intramuscular Fat %.

Until now, the raw data presented for the sale has included age, weight, scrotal and scan data of Rump and Rib Fats and Eye Muscle Area (EMA). This data has been supplied to give the potential purchaser an indication of each animal's performance in relation to other animals in the sale, noting that raw data should only be compared between animals that are of the same age and exposed to the same environmental and nutritional regimes.

INTRAMUSCULAR FAT (IMF)

In 2023 raw data for IMF will be made available for the first time.

Intramuscular Fat is the fat that is located between the muscle cells within the muscles of an animal.

The Intramuscular Fat is measured by using real time ultrasound and is expressed as a IMF%. The IMF% is measured in the EMA to give a measurement of the level of IMF that is present in the muscle of the animal.

For example if an animal has an EMA of 120cm² with an IMF% of 6.8%, then its saying that of that 120cm² of EMA, then 6.8% of that muscle is IMF. The higher the IMF% the greater the chance of that animal having a higher level of marbling upon slaughter.

An animal's ability to express IMF is dependent on many factors.

These include:

- Genetic make up of the animal, if the animal does not have the genetic ability to deposit IMF then extra feed will not increase the level of IMF in the muscle.
- Age of the animal, the older the animal the greater the level of expression of IMF. Bulls at 24 months of age will exhibit more IMF than a bull at 16 months of age due to increased physiological maturity.
- Nutrition, the greater the level of nutrition the animal is exposed to during its lifetime will increase the level of expression of IMF, this is especially important during pregnancy.
- Animal health, the healthier the animal is during its lifetime the greater the chance of the expression of IMF.

Intramuscular Fat is the fat that solidifies upon slaughter to give us the expression of marbling within the beef carcass. Intramuscular Fat is made up of many different chemical compounds (unlike subcutaneous and seam fats) that all have different melting points. This is why the carcass needs to be chilled down to between 3-5 degrees Celsius to allow maximum expression of IMF to give the most accurate marble score. It is VERY IMPORTANT to note that an IMF% is NOT the same as a MARBLE SCORE, ie an IMF% of 7.1% is not a marble score of 7.1.

Even though Intramuscular Fat % is an indirect measure of the carcass trait marbling, by measuring cattle of the same age that are running on the same nutrition it is possible to identify sire and dam lines that do have the ability to produce and express more IMF.

So when taking into consideration the above mentioned factors, when using raw data, a bull's IMF% should only be directly compared to other bulls if they are within a two month age range and on the same nutrition, ie animals of the same age from the same herd, (as seen presented at on property sales). If trying to compare between herds then it should be done with EXTREME CAUTION. It would also be advantageous to talk to a representative from the studs to see how the bulls ranked compared to all the bulls in his age group if scanned previously for genetic evaluation (EPD's). To take this one step further it would be advantageous to see how the bull's sire group ranked in relation to the average for the group, the higher the average for the sire's progeny within the group compared to the group average then the greater the chance of bulls from that sire producing higher IMF in their progeny.

It would be strongly advised to also look at the EPD for individual bulls when selecting for IMF as this takes into account the animal's performance in relation to his peers for that year, along with the performance of his relatives within the Shorthorn population. The EPD can also be derived along with the addition of genetic material (genomics) which gives information of the what genes are present within the animal. If a bull has high performance within his peers as well as the desirable genes for IMF then there is a greater chance of that bull having increased IMF% and also passing that onto to his progeny.

Increasing IMF in a herd of cattle is a long term process. IMF has a lower level of heritability compared to other carcass traits. By selecting bulls that have a higher EPD for Marbling as well as above average IMF% performance compared to their peers of the same age, this will increase the chance of those bulls passing that onto their progeny over the same set of cows.

If anyone has any questions please do not hesitate to contact the committee or myself for further advice.

PROTECTION AGAINST TWO IS BETTER THAN ONE¹

(MH) Mannheimia Haemolytica and
(IBR) Infectious Bovine Rhinotracheitis Virus are two of the main infectious agents that cause BRD¹

Only Bovilis[®] MH+IBR helps control both MH and IBR

IBR and MH are often linked to pneumonia cases²

The risk of BRD increases with the increased number of respiratory viruses that cattle are exposed to,
particularly in the first 6 weeks of feedlot entry³

Many feedlots pay a premium for cattle
pre-vaccinated with Bovilis MH+IBR*

3 Cusack et al, Evaluation of practises used to reduce the incidence of bovine respiratory disease in Australian Feedlots, MLA, 2016.

* Premiums vary between feedlots and not all feedlots pay a premium.
